

Controlling Costs for Our Clients

Traditional engineering consulting firms have created a multi-billion dollar industry out of charging time-and-material fees on a task-by-task basis while assuming absolutely no project risk. Traditional engineering consulting firms maximize revenue by billing the maximum hours possible. Endpoint Solutions believes there is a better way.

By offering a definitive solution to the issue for a guaranteed cost on a guaranteed schedule allows the owner to cap their environmental costs up front. Unfortunately, most large engineering consulting firms cannot or will not provide the guaranteed solutions due to profit targets, billable time goals or Wall Street projections. That's where Endpoint Solutions comes in.
